WE WANT TO HEAR YOUR THOUGHTS!

The City of Los Angeles Department of City Planning is exploring ideas to encourage vibrant communities and employment hubs around the region's growing transit network through the Los Angeles Transit Neighborhood Plans (LATNP) program. The planning effort looks out to the year 2040 and considers how new land use and zoning regulations for the neighborhoods around three Purple Line stations can promote active, walkable places and achieve State objectives to reduce greenhouse gas emissions by planning for growth near transit. At these open houses, the community will have an opportunity to learn about:

- Community input received at workshops held in June 2016
- How community input is being incorporated into the initial concepts
- What the next steps in the planning process are

The meeting will consist of an overview presentation, followed by an open house featuring stations covering each geographic area. Drop in any time during the open house to learn about the plan and provide feedback.
